Mayor Rob Dahle called the Briefing Session to order at 5:30. Before reviewing the agenda, the Council was introduced to the following:

Wasatch Front Waste and Recycling District – New Director.
Mayor Dahle expressed support for long-time General Manager, Pam Roberts, and New General Manager, Evan Tyrrell. It was noted that Ms. Roberts is retiring after 28 years of public service. She shared information about her work background and stated that she feels comfortable with Mr. Tyrrell taking over the position, as he is competent and qualified. She provided details about some of the cost-saving measures that the district has implemented recently.

Mr. Tyrrell introduced himself to the City Council. He earned dual Master's Degrees from Indiana University. His home State is Indiana and he has degrees in both Public Affairs and Environmental Science. He has worked in a variety of public sector roles throughout his career. More recently, he worked as the Solid Waste and Fleet Services Director for the City of Flagstaff. Prior to that, he served as the Executive Director for the Solid Waste Special Service District in Moab. He shared details about his prior positions and was excited to work for the Wasatch Front Waste and Recycling District moving forward.

He reported that Wasatch Front Waste and Recycling provides residential waste and recycling collection services for over 86,000 residents throughout Salt Lake County, including residents in the City of Holladay. He is excited to work with the organization and expressed appreciation for the smooth transition that is taking place.

Council Member Gray expressed appreciation for the work that is done by Wasatch Front Waste and Recycling District. She reported that Mr. Tyrrell was easily the most qualified candidate interviewed, even though there were a lot of wonderful applicants. The district is lucky to have him as an employee. Council Member Gray stated that the City of Holladay is well served by employees at the district.

UPD Social Worker
The City Council was concerned about growing mental health occurrences in the community. Some of the other UPD partners were having challenges with their budgets, so Millcreek and the City of Holladay discussed funding a position related to mental health needs. The person selected to serve in that role was Gregg Golden. Police Chief, Justin Hoyal, explained that earlier this year, there was a proposal to split the cost of this position with Millcreek. Mr. Gorgen is an LCSW and came from the Salt Lake City Police Department. He has been a wonderful addition.

Mr. Golden introduced himself to the City Council. He is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and his family moved back to Utah in 2020 after living in Wyoming for 10 years. Mr. Golden has done a lot of different social work throughout his career, including child protective services, adult protective services, probation, hospital social work, psychiatric social work, and skilled nursing social work.
He was excited to be working in this new position and to benefit the community. There is a lot of ground to cover and a lot of mental health issues that need to be addressed. He shared a success story about an individual who was consistently calling 911 due to paranoia, with over 50 calls made in the span of one week. That individual was able to be taken to the hospital and put on medication. Charges were dismissed through the Justice Court because of the progress made. Chief Hoyal reported that Mr. Golden has done an incredible job so far.

Council Member Fotheringham expressed support for the program and the focus on mental health. Mayor Dahle believes there will be more of this kind of work in police departments in the future. It is beneficial to have professionals who are engaged in the community and can observe common issues. Council Member Gray asked if there is always an officer with Mr. Golden when he visits someone. Mr. Golden confirmed that he is always with an officer. Mr. Golden explained that when there is a call where an officer feels social work would be needed, he is contacted. Mayor Dahle thanked Chief Hoyal and Mr. Golden for presenting this information.

The Council then reviewed the agenda.

I. Welcome – Mayor Rob Dahle.
Mayor Dahle called the City Council Meeting to order at approximately 6:00 p.m. He noted that Council Member Gray would be present for most of the meeting, but might need to leave early.

II. Pledge of Allegiance.
Mayor Dahle led the Pledge of Allegiance.

III. Public Comments.
Christopher Huffman -2174 E Suada Dr. Suada Drive is the street directly across from Olympus High School. He spoke as a concerned father and on behalf of dozens of families in the neighborhood. Suada Drive has unintentionally become a bypass road for Olympus High School for students looking to avoid congestion on 2300 East. It has made the street busier than it was designed to be. What is unique about the road is that there are two cul-de-sacs and a blind curve between the two. There are approximately 47 children under the age of 10 years old who live on the street and those children cross the blind curve constantly. There are currently no crosswalks and no traffic calming measures in place. The visibility currently violates both the national site stopping distance for a public 25-mile-per-hour street as well as City of Holladay clear view standards. The national standard is 155 feet and the City standard is 300 feet, but it is 130 feet.

Since school has resumed this fall, there have been vehicles coming around that corner at 40 to 50 miles per hour. His daughter has almost been hit and she was not even in the road. There have been two or three other incidents in the area as well. Cones have been used as well as slow-down signs and the police have been contacted. Nothing has worked at this point. Mr. Huffman adjusted his work schedule so he can be present when school gets out. He asked the City to take steps to address this issue with a Traffic Study or to consider blocking off a portion of Suada Drive. The residents are available to assist with potential solutions moving forward and there is a willingness to help pay for mitigation measures. He reiterated that City help is needed to address the current safety issues.

Mayor Dahle reported that a letter was emailed to the City Council Members. In addition, there is a speed report available from Chief Hoyal. There will be communication with Mr. Huffman after the meeting.

IV. Helping Hands Presentation.

Mayor Dahle reported that there are two Helping Hands recipients this year. The program started approximately eight years ago after discussions about all of the work that is done to benefit the community. There are City residents who volunteer in an effort to make the community better. The intention is to celebrate individuals who have been nominated for their work in Holladay. The two individuals who will be honored with the award this year are Denise Swope and Robert Long.

Mayor Dahle explained that the first recipient of the Helping Hands award is Ms. Swope. He worked with Ms. Swope at Crown Colony many years back. She has been a pillar of the Holladay youth sports community for many decades. Her years of service as a coach and champion at Crown Colony have shaped the lives of countless young athletes. She has coached both baseball and softball for over 30 years and has led elite-level sports programs for the past nine years. Her dedication goes far beyond coaching. Ms. Swope was instrumental in reclaiming the Crown Colony land from the University of Utah Women's Basketball Team ("WBBA") and establishing a perpetual corporation to ensure the land remains forever dedicated to baseball. Her efforts have preserved a vital space for future generations to play, grow, and connect. Ms. Swope was presented with the Helping Hands award and a photograph was taken.

The second recipient of the Helping Hands award is Mr. Long. Mayor Dahle reported that there was a presentation from the Carmelites at one of the events in the community and during that time, there was a discussion about the Carmelite Monastery. There was a conversation about the volunteers who maintain the property. It was noted that Mr. Long has quietly and faithfully served the Carmelite nuns of Holladay for over four decades, embodying the spirit of selfless service. Whether it was tending to the lawn, maintaining the landscaping, or performing countless unseen acts of kindness, his steady presence has been a source of comfort and support to the sisters. His work has never been about recognition, but about love, respect, and a deep sense of purpose. Mr. Long has shown up consistently because he believes in the value of quiet service and the importance of nurturing a place of peace and prayer. His humility and generosity were praised. Mr. Long was being honored not only for what he has done, but because he has done it with grace, consistency, and a quiet strength. The most powerful acts of service are often the quietest. The impacts are measured in the lives touched. Mr. Long was presented with the Helping Hands award and a photograph was taken.

Mayor Dahle and the City Council reiterated their appreciation for the Helping Hands awards recipients and that this is one of the highlights of the year to recognize the awardees.

V. Public Hearing on Proposed 2025-2026 Budget Amendments.

Finance Director, Christian Larsen, reviewed the amendments.

Mayor Dahle opened the public hearing at 6:33 pm. There were no comments. The hearing was closed.

VI. Public Hearing on Proposed Text Amendment to Title 13.86.020 to add 2052 East Arbor Lane to Holladay's Historic Designation List.

Mayor Dahle reported that the next public hearing relates to a proposed Text Amendment to Title 13.86.020 to add 2052 East Arbor Lane to Holladay's Historic Designation List. He explained that the home is often referred to as The Dinwoodey Home.

Mayor Dahle opened the public hearing at 6:35 pm..

Kim Duffy- 2195 E Walker Lane. She stated that Camille Pierce and Steven Glaser have owned the home for approximately 34 years and it is a piece of old Holladay that has been preserved beautifully. In addition, the owners have been stewards of the land and the creek that runs through it. She hopes the City of Holladay will reward owners like this for their efforts.

Camillie Pierce and Steve Glaser - 2052 East Arbor Lane. Ms. Pierce explained that an application has been made to be included on Holladay's Historic Designation List. She shared an image of the back of the home. The intention has always been to maintain the original look and feel as much as possible. Most of the windows are original and the original upper story remains. In 1939, Paul and Betty Dinwoodey had their primary residence at this location. It is an English Cottage Style/Colonial Revival house that was built on several acres. The features reflected the times, as the closets were small due to the inability to afford material goods during the Great Depression. Almost every room in the house has windows to look out into nature. As the family grew and their resources grew, the home was expanded in 1956, using a Mid-Century Modern theme. This newer style provided designated spaces, such as a large dining room, an additional bedroom, and two additional bathrooms. Some images were shared with the City Council for reference.

Ms. Pierce shared additional historical information about the Dinwoodey family. The Dinwoodey Home reflects the family history, as seen in the variety of woods that have been used: pine, fir, oak, and mahogany. The current 1.5 acres is an expansive area surrounded by mature vegetation, which is backed by Big Cottonwood Creek. Paul Dinwoodey was considered a master gardener, so changes to the landscape have been made with the guidance of Landscape Architects and other professionals. Ms. Pierce further discussed the home and explained that as long as they live on the property, there is a commitment to maintain the home and the yard. A lot of work has been done on the house over the years, including replacing the plumbing, mitigating radon, seismic reinforcement work, roof replacement, repainting, and efforts to make the house more energy efficient.

There were no further comments. The public hearing was closed.

VII. Consideration of Resolution 2025-24 - Authorizing and Approving the Execution and Delivery of a Master Lease Agreement by and between the City and the Local Building Authority of the City of Holladay, Utah (the "Authority"); Authorizing the Issuance and Sale by the Authority of not more than $11,500,000 Aggregate Principal Amount of Lease Revenue Bonds; and Related Matters.

Mr. Gross explained that the City will lease the existing ground and/or buildings to the LBA and the LBA then leases it back to the City. It also leases the constructed and financed improvements. There is a construct under State Law that allows the City to finance this way. Essentially, the City creates the LBA and leases what it currently owns. That is sub-leased back to the City and the improvements are leased. Discussions were had about the LBA.

Ms. Lewis stated that the LBA issues the bonds. Should a future City Council choose not to make an annual lease payment, then the Trustee, on behalf of the bondholders, will come in and seize all of that. Under State Law, cities have a variety of ways to approach financing. For example, it is possible to pledge sales tax or franchise fees. There could also be a General Obligation Bond or a pledge of property taxes. There are many different options available to cities. However, if the intention is to lease a property, there is a prohibition on entering into long-term debt. Since there is a right to walk away and not make the lease payment, it is not considered long-term debt. This preserves the sales tax for harder-to-finance projects. She shared some example scenarios with the City Council.

Council Member Fotheringham moved to APPROVE Resolution 2025-24 – Authorizing and Approving the Execution and Delivery of a Master Lease Agreement by and between the City and the Local Building Authority of the City of Holladay, Utah (the "Authority"); Authorizing the Issuance and Sale by the Authority of not more than $11,500,000 Aggregate Principal Amount of Lease Revenue Bonds; and Related Matters. Council Member Quinn seconded the motion. Vote on Motion: Council Member Gray-Yes; Council Member Quinn-Yes; Council Member Fotheringham-Yes; Council Member Durham-Yes; Mayor Dahle-Yes. The motion passed unanimously.

VIII. Consideration of Ordinance 2025-17- Amending Title 7 of the City Code Relating to Code Enforcement.

Mayor Dahle reported that there has not been a public hearing on Title 7 therefore the plan is to continue this item to the next City Council Meeting.

IX. City Manager Report – Gina Chamness.

III. Consideration of LBA 2025-01 – Adopting Bylaws for the Local Building Authority of the City of Holladay, Utah; Confirming the Election of Officers and Authorizing Other Actions on Behalf of the Authority.
Chair Dahle reported that LBA 2025-01 relates to the creation of the bylaws for the LBA. Chair/President is listed as Robert Dahle, Vice President is listed as Emily Gray, and Secretary-Treasurer is listed as Stephanie Carlson. Trustee Paul Fotheringham noted that there are a few places in the documents that reference Trustees, while there were other references to Board Members. He asked for clarification. City Attorney, Todd Godfrey, clarified that Trustees and Board Members are the same under the law. As a result, the different terms used in the materials will have no legal impact.

Trustee Gray moved to APPROVE LBA 2025-01 – Adopting Bylaws for the Local Building Authority of the City of Holladay, Utah; Confirming the Election of Officers and Authorizing Other Actions on Behalf of the Authority. Trustee Quinn seconded the motion. Vote on Motion: Trustee Gray-Yes; Trustee Quinn-Yes; Trustee Fotheringham-Yes; Trustee Durham-Yes; Chair Dahle-Yes. The motion passed unanimously.

IV. Consideration of LBA 2025-02 – Statement Resolution.
Chair Dahle informed those present that LBA 2025-02 does not require a formal motion to be taken, but that language be read into the record. He read the following statement into the record:

- The Local Building Authority of the City of Holladay, Utah, hereby intends to issue a Lease Revenue Bond. The purpose of said bond is to provide funds to (a) finance all or a portion of the costs of (i) the acquisition and construction of a park and recreation facility and all related improvements, (ii) the renovation, retrofit, and improvements of a City Hall, including seismic upgrades and related improvements, and (iii) the improvement of other City facilities, including parks and roadways and related improvements (collectively, the "Series 2025 Project"); (b) fund any required debt service reserve fund; and (c) pay costs associated with the issuance of the bonds. The estimated amount of the bond is $11,500,000.

V. Consideration of LBA 2025-03 – Authorizing the Issuance and Sale of Not More Than $11,500,000 Aggregate Principal Amount of Lease Revenue Bonds; and Related Matters.

Chair Dahle noted that the issuance is for not more than $11,500,000, but it is anticipated that $10,200,000 to $10,300,000 will be used. Laura Lewis explained that a certain amount is anticipated to construct the facilities and handle the City Hall renovations, but other costs need to be taken into account. In the bond, it is possible to build the additional costs into the actual bonds. That is the reason that the par amount is set higher than the $10 million or so for construction. The additives include a Debt Service Reserve Fund, which is money borrowed that sits in an account with a Trustee. There are Federal Tax Laws that govern how high that can be set. There is the $10 million for construction, the reserve fund, and then the cost of issuance, which pays for the underwriter, ratings, Legal Counsel, and so on. Ms. Lewis has advised that the par amount be set at $11.5 million. The interest rate is not to exceed 6.5%, there is a maximum maturity of 25 years set, and a maximum discount from par of 3%. The Resolution also sets forth that there will be designated Officers. The Chair and Vice Chair of the LBA can grant the final approval within those parameters. There will need to be a public hearing held, which is scheduled to take place on November 6, 2025.

Trustee Fotheringham asked about the reserve fund. He wanted to understand if that is interest-bearing, which was confirmed. Ms. Lewis explained that it is interest-bearing, but there are restrictions. Typically, the interest earnings on that do not match what the interest rate is on the bond. A few years ago, short-term rates were high, and it was possible to earn some positive arbitrage. That reserve fund is released with the final payment, so it effectively will make the final payment. Trustee Fotheringham noted that interest rates currently have downward pressure. He asked if it would make sense to consider buying down the rate by half a point. Ms. Lewis stated that it is not something that can occur in this situation, but it might be possible to negotiate a slightly more aggressive call feature. It is standard in the market that bonds will be callable at 10 years at par. While it is always possible to negotiate an earlier call, it is a question of how much that will cost. Ms. Lewis reported that it might be possible to negotiate a nine-year par call without a cost. Discussions were had about the rates.

Trustee Fotheringham moved to APPROVE LBA 2025-03 – Authorizing the Issuance and Sale of Not More Than $11,500,000 Aggregate Principal Amount of Lease Revenue Bonds; and Related Matters. Trustee Durham seconded the motion. Vote on Motion: Trustee Gray-Yes; Trustee Quinn-Yes; Trustee Fotheringham-Yes; Trustee Durham-Yes; Chair Dahle-Yes. The motion passed unanimously.

VI. Adjourn LBA Meeting.

Trustee Fotheringham moved to ADJOURN. Trustee Durham seconded the motion. The motion passed with the unanimous consent of the LBA.

The LBA Meeting adjourned at approximately 7:15 p.m.

I hereby certify that the foregoing represents a true, accurate, and complete record of the Holladay LBA Meeting held on Thursday, September 18, 2025.
